Why I Use Query-Point

I signed up for Query-Point because I want my clients to have an easier way to find useful property information when and where they need it.

Query-Point turns real estate signs into a convenient information source for your smartphone. When you see a participating property, you can quickly view details, photos, links, maps and other information without having to wait for someone to call you back.

I also provide my clients with a Property Search Link. I recommend opening that link on your phone and saving or bookmarking it. Once saved, you can use it again whenever you are out looking at homes.

As you move around the area, simply reopen the Property Search Link and refresh it. Query-Point will show participating properties near your current location. Other properties may also appear as pins on the map, helping you discover listings you might otherwise miss.

Save the link once, and you have a simple property-search tool available whenever you need it.

My goal is to make your home search easier, faster and more informative - and to make it easier for you to get property information at the moment you are interested in it.
